Planning for Construction. To achieve the client's™ aspirations on cost, programme and quality, planning for construction should start at the very beginning of the design process. Such planning should consider the construction sequence, the design factors that affect buildability, and site practice in terms of typical erection plant.

This article describes the verification of steel members subject to shear, bending moments and axial forces. The member must provide adequate compression, tension, bending and shear resistance. Where the member is subjected to axial and lateral loading simultaneously, additional resistance requirements checks will be required, taking into account the combination of these loading effects.

Batik is a technique of wax-resist dyeing applied to whole cloth, or cloth made using this technique originated from Indonesia. Batik is made either by drawing dots and lines of the resist with a spouted tool called a canting, or by printing the resist with a copper stamp called a cap. The applied wax resists dyes and therefore allows the artisan to colour selectively by soaking the cloth in ...
